

UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION PROGRAMME IN SOCIAL SCIENCES

OVERVIEW

During your Foundation Programme you will develop the language, learning and communication skills that will prepare you for university study in the UK & Australia. In addition, you will study the following key academic subject modules:

▶ Law

An introduction to the English legal system with a strong emphasis on evaluating information and developing the skill to construct logical, coherent and balanced arguments. You will also study contract and criminal law plus explore issues of morality and justice.

▶ Politics

An introduction to the UK political system and processes. You will apply your knowledge to contemporary politics and events plus learn about political institutions and processes in the USA, analysing the similarities and differences between the two systems.

▶ Economics

An introduction to key economic concepts, theories and institutions. You will explore current national and international economic issues, the problems they create and the effect on everyday life.

The course is completed with a project which consolidates your learning and further prepares you for undergraduate study.
